RAY'S CAPACITY IS PLACED AT 44,000,000

New York, July 31.—The placing in remission of the fourth unit at Ray will put the property on the basis of 44,000,000 pounds per annum. Each 100 tons per day additional capacity derived per section of the mill represents on the eight sections of the concentrator under construction 8,000,000 pounds of copper per annum. From this it will be seen that the increased tonnage now being handled per section of mill is a matter of great importance to the company. Thompson, Towle & Co.

FIRST LICENSE UNDER NEW LAW

Liquor Dealer Is Required to Prove Good Character and to Obligate Himself to Abide by the Law—Licenses Are Refused Four Saloonkeepers in Compliance With Demands of City Ordinances.

Sitting en banc this morning, Judge James A. Howell and Nathan J. Harris, of the second district court, granted the first liquor licenses under the new law of the state and the city. The license was granted to A. L. Kohn, for the wholesale of liquor for a quarter year.

When the application was called for consideration a short time ago and continued until this morning, the law firm of Halverson & Pratt gave notice that they would contest the granting of the license on behalf of Morgan county, but when the case was called this morning they advised the court that they would withdraw from the case. It afterwards developed that an agreement had been entered into between the applicant and the attorneys for Morgan county that Mr. Kohn would not sell liquor in Morgan county. The proposed contest arose over the fact that a minor of Morgan had purchased liquor from Mr. Kohn and it was suspected that there had been a number of other sales of the kind in Morgan county. Mr. Kohn contends that he has no knowledge of it, but he says the Morgan field is of little consequence to his business and, that, rather than to have any friction, he would abandon the field altogether and let some other dealer handle the business there.

In support of the application for a license, Mr. Kohn testified that he is a citizen of the United States, over 25 years of age, of good moral character and not addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors. He also stated that his place of business is situated at 2348 Washington avenue and is more than three hundred feet from a church, and that there are no incumbrances on the personal property of the premises which he owns. It was also stated by the applicant that he does not sell liquors to minors and that he has never violated the liquor laws of 1911.

Regarding the disposition of his stock of wares, Mr. Kohn stated that he had no solicitors in the territory where he sells but that he sends advertising matter to people whose names are sent him by the recorders of the various counties in which he deals, all of whom are taxpayers and of the age of majority. The applicant stated that if orders for liquor were sent in by those under age, it was without his knowledge or connivance.

In granting the license for three months, the court advised Mr. Kohn that he must know whether parties ordering liquors are of age, and that, if they are not, he must not sell to them. In the course of his remarks, Judge Harris said:

"The sale of liquor to minors must cease and the burden of learning whether a person ordering the liquor is a minor rests upon the party selling it. A violation of this law is grounds for the revocation of a license or refusal to grant one."

Attorneys appearing for Norman & Burrill, Burrill & Waters, Lewis Leavitt and A. L. Kohn, asking for retail liquor licenses, withdrew them and the applications were expunged from the record. While no reason was given to the court for the withdrawal of the applications, it was stated by the attorney for the parties after the adjournment of court that it is plain under the recent law of the city that the court can grant no new licenses, and it was useless to press the applications. This means the elimination of four retail licenses, and the judges of the court say, unofficially, that the process of elimination will be carried on in some equitable way until there is only one saloon in Ogden for each 1,000 people. It is evident that no new licenses will be granted and it is also evident that those who are in the business will be required to comply strictly with the law if they wish to avoid a revocation of their licenses.

Joseph Hall, whose application for a license at the Sanitarium was before the court, did not appear, it being explained that Mr. Hall did not understand that he should appear, and the hearing of the application was continued until this afternoon. The attorney for Mr. Hall offered to take the witness stand and testify for Mr. Hall as to the things required under the law, but Judge Howell stated that the applicant must appear in person and advise the court of things that must be known before a license could be granted.

FARMERS TO RAISE NEW WHEAT

A note of friendly warning to Utah farmers was sounded at a convention of Utah millers and grain men held in Ogden recently, to the effect that unless better wheat is produced in this state the time will come when producers will have to take a lower price for their grain than a standard wheat is worth. It was pointed out to the convention by Prof. C. H. Henson and L. R. Stewart of the Agricultural College of Utah and by Mr. Smithworth, a leading grain dealer of Ogden, that the kinds of wheat mostly grown in this state are of inferior quality for milling and bread-making purposes, the last named speaker declaring that the California millers, who, some years ago, were active bidders for Utah wheat, will not now make an offer for such grain as is grown here, except for use as chicken feed.

The wheats that are said to have caused most of the slump in quality are the gold coin and Sonora varieties, neither of which are acceptable for milling purposes, because of their excessive starchiness and the lack of gluten contents in the berry. Utah millers have long known that these wheats were not good, but have accepted them at full price until now. As they will no longer do so, it is shown by the tenor of a resolution passed unanimously by the Ogden convention, in which the millers present declared emphatically that they will not accept these two varieties of wheat at full price, but that purchases will in future be made according to the quality of the wheat offered by the farmer.

The wheats mentioned in the resolution as being desired because of their fair choice milling qualities are as follows, in the order of their preference: Turkey red, blue stem, soft house (or winter La Salle) Kofod, red life.

Turkey red is placed at the head because the showing made with that wheat in Utah so far indicates that it will produce more wheat than any other variety on dry farms, being an exceptionally good drought resistant.

It is also highest in percentage of gluten, and hence will be the best for making bread. Blue stem, while not so prolific, is a good milling wheat. Lothouse is excellent both in the matter of production and quality. New Zealand is recommended as the best spring wheat for Utah.

Nearly all of the important milling concerns of the state were represented at the Ogden convention, and the decision reached means that farmers who wish to get full price for their wheat must plant hereafter a kind of wheat that will be acceptable to the buyers. The grain brokers of the state were also members of the convention and registered their vote with the millers as to the movement for better wheat in Utah, may be said to have been launched in a way that insures results.

It would seem, therefore, that farmers should make arrangements before planting this fall to get seed of some of the standard varieties mentioned. The benefit will accrue first to the farmer himself, and in a secondary way the millers and grain men will be benefited by the increase of grain shipments and the better flour market.

Every effort is being made by the officers of the Ogden convention to advise farmers of the action taken in time for 1911 seedling, and in this way they will be assisted by those in charge of the Agricultural College Experiment station, who have for years been advocating the planting of only the best seed of the best varieties of grain, as a potent means of developing the farming industry of Utah. It is understood that some of the milling companies and grain men are planning to provide seed wheat at cost to farmers who will make known their needs in that line.

SET DATE FOR THE FALL CONFERENCE

The first presidency of the Mormon church yesterday set the date for the opening of the fall conference of the church as October 6, and in a few days the official call will be issued. The general conference will bring thousands from all over the west and some of the eastern states. The railroads were notified of the date upon which conference is to open, and rates will be shortly announced starting October 5.

On October 4 and 5 there will be auxiliary meetings, such as the Relief society and the various missions. On Saturday, October 7, there will be a general priesthood meeting and on the following Monday there is to be a special special priesthood meeting.

MOVING THE CHAPMAN HOUSE

The Chapman House on Twenty-fifth street, between Lincoln and Wall avenues, an old landmark of Ogden's early building, is today an empty shell and before the week is gone it will virtually be a thing of the past. Fred J. Kissel is to move the old structure and, on the ground it occupies, build a beautiful business block to cost in the neighborhood of $15,000.

The old house has furnished shelter for the wayfarer these many years at one time being among the most renowned hotels of the city. But its mission has been fulfilled and, like one bowed in years, must give way to a more modern structure. The tenants have left the building and a force of men have been employed to move the house and make room for the new structure.

The Locomotive "closed for the hot summer months" but will reopen about the last of August. Manager Lippincott who, for the past four or five years has incessantly cried out, "Never over, never done, something going on all the time," says he is going to take a vacation and let the playhouse rest a few days.

Electricians are at work today on the new theater on Twenty-fifth street, only a few doors west of the Locomotive, wiring the place for service. The painters and finishers are also putting on the last touches and within the next two weeks the playhouse will be ready for theatrical performances.

Mabel F. Holst is erecting a residence on Twelfth street, between Jefferson and Madison avenues, that will cost $2,500.

H. L. Taylor has begun the building of a dwelling house on Twenty-fifth street, between Harrison and Tyler avenues, that will cost upwards of $2,500.

On Twenty-sixth street, between Wall and Lincoln avenues, Harry Garvas is building a $3,500 apartment house.

We deeply appreciate the kind acts of assistance and of the sympathy extended during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father. We take this means of expressing our thanks to our many friends and may God reward them for their kindness. MRS. J. D. COUTTS AND FAMILY.

NEW THEATER IS TO OPEN AUG. 28

The new theater, now nearing completion on lower Twenty-fifth street, is to be opened to the public August 28 under the management of Harry Revier, manager of the Majestic theater of Salt Lake City.

The play house, while not as large as some of the other theaters of the city, has a capacity large enough to accommodate several hundred people. It is the intention of the management to give a condensed form musical comedy, together with moving pictures. To show will be given nightly with the usual matinees and popular prices will prevail all over the house. The bill will be changed weekly, according to the statement of the manager, and the companies will be composed of from fifteen to twenty persons. Companies will be interchanged with those playing at the Majestic theater.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to extend our sincere and heartfelt thanks to our friends for their many acts of kindness and assistance shown us during the late illness and death of our beloved daughter, who for the beautiful floral offerings. (Signed) MR. and MRS. J. G. SISMAN.

The "After Sale" Attracts Hundreds of Buyers

The doors of the store opened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. There were waiting nearly a hundred people — and when they were admitted to the store, we gave them bargains which were indeed worth while.

This "After Sale" is sometimes improperly called a Rummage Sale — improperly because the term rummage implies merchandise of indifferent value. The facts are these: We have completed a very successful summer business. Of the stocks remaining there are odd lots — broken assortments — remnants. These left over goods are good as new to the person who has use for them — to us they represent tag ends which cannot be properly stocked.

Obviously the thing for you to do is to look here before buying any need, for there is great probability of your buying that need at the "After Sale" price — which in every case will be considerably less.

WRIGHTS'

war game just concluded here will reach $150,000. This sum kept six thousand men in the field for seven days and covered all the expenses of their maneuvers. The cost of food averaged 32 cents a day per man. Transportation cost about $2 per man.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor today, in a special report to the senate on conditions of employment in the iron and steel industry in the United States, stated that "out of over 30,000 employees covered in the report, the customary working week of one-third of them was a seven-day week, Sunday not differing from other days and approximately one-fourth of the 30,000 worked 84 hours or over per week, which in effect made a twelve-hour day every day in the week."

BOY CONFESSES TO HIS MOTHER

New York, Aug. 1.—Paul Geldel's mother faints when she heard him confess that he had murdered William Henry Jackson, the aged broker. Mrs. Geldel came here from her home in Hartford, Conn., with her daughter, Agnes, aged 16. When Paul was brought to see her at the Tombs prison, she asked:

"My boy, did you do it? Tell your mother."

Without raising his head, Geldel replied: "Yes, I did."

His mother fell in a swoon. It was half an hour before she regained consciousness.

Geldel's attorney today obtained a postponement of his arraignment to allow him to apply for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the boy's sanity.

Notwithstanding his confession, every avenue that the law offers for escape from the death penalty will be tried in his case, James A. Gray, his lawyer, said. He added that a wealthy hotel man, whose name he was not at liberty to disclose, has come to Geldel's aid and would bear the expense of the trial.

TWO GREAT FIRES IN CALIFORNIA

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 1.—At each end of a sixteen-mile stretch of mountain range, two great forest fires are raging today. The west fork of the fire wall is spreading over into Devil's canyon and, unless it is checked soon, will sweep into Cajon Pass and up the Santa Fe railroad. The blaze to the eastward is working along the crest of the mountains and down into Little Bear valley.

This wing of the flames also stretches along the summit of Strawberry Peak to City Creek canyon and is gradually burning its way to the Brooklyn lumber mills and the Fred summer resort.

The Brooklyn's mills have a hundred men back firing. Ranger Switzer and his men are at work in Little Bear valley.

SCARCITY OF WATER CAUSES COTTON MILLS TO SHUT DOWN

Charlotte, N. C., July 31.—As a climax to the unprecedented drought this section is experiencing, 152 cotton mills in North and South Carolina shut down today because the water in the Catawba river is so low the Southern Power company cannot supply the plants with power. It is estimated that 70,000 operatives are thrown out of work, but it is believed work will be resumed in two days. It has been many weeks since rain of any consequence has fallen, and creeks which have not gone dry in 45 years are mudholes. Mountain streams to the west, upon which many flouring mills, sawmills and cotton mills are dependent for power, have dwindled to mere brooks, and many

WOOL AFFECTED BY UNCERTAINTIES

Boston, Aug. 1.—Trading in the wool market has been checked considerably by uncertainty regarding tariff legislation at Washington. In many quarters the disposition has been to clean up all new wools to the highest bidder. In this way the margin of profit has been small.

The demand for fleeces continues. A further demand for Missouri bright wools has been noted. One lot of 125,000 pounds of half, three-eighths and quarter bloods is reported on private terms.

Texas wools are around 52¢ to 53¢.
